Iterative process

Slovenia

Integrated care into practice:

- Strong commitment from the Ministry of Health
- Top down and bottom up involvement of all actors
- Vocal patient perspective has made the difference during the study visit. That's why patients are needed around the table

Finland

Focus on vulnerable groups such as the Somali community:

- Effective approach to engage the community
- Tailored tools to empower the community
- Interim results highlight where room for improvement is (address existing limitations, replicability of the practice, expanding the target population)

Greece

Holistic approach to prevention and delivery of healthcare through self-care and self-management:

- All the levels of society involved
- Need for stronger commitment from the Ministry of Health
- LIWG keen to further implement the pilot action and extend it to people with disability (potential of transferability of the knowledge)

Co-funded by the Third Health Programme of the European Union

Serbia

Focus on prevention and high quality care of NCDs using diabetes as a model:

- Target population: persons at high risk of diabetes and CVD
- Promotion of empowerment, self-management and shared decision-making and education
- New practice design (DCU) on primary care level in accordance with the law on the healthcare system

„United in diversity”

Modularity : the QCR Tool provides benchmarks that can be easily adapted to the individual pilot actions and their evolution

Health Reforms: many of the pilot actions take place in countries where the Health sector is undergoing or has just completed a reform process

Uniqueness: each Study Visit was needed to understand the specific nature of different contexts
